Advanced data backup tool that helps you restore data stored on your Mozilla Firefox. Make sure you have all you need Needless to say that the application specially targets Mozilla Firefox, so if you're not using it to go online, you'd best look for other ways to save your data. In addition, the computer you install the application on needs to be equipped with .NET Framework. The good thing is the application doesn't brutally interfere with whatever it is that you are doing online when you run it. What's more, unless you want to recover a backup, there's absolutely no need to close Firefox. Accommodation is a walk in the park, thanks to the neat visual design that cleverly fits all tools and operations you can perform. All of them take you through a series of easy steps, gradually requiring details, but letting you advance only one step at a time. Large variety of useful tools The application isn't limited to creating a backup, with a lot more useful tools inside. After one is created, you can snoop through content to see exactly what files got saved just as you would in Windows Explorer. Sadly, these can't be modified once packed inside a backup. A built-in scheduler lets you automate the process, and it does so by using the Windows Task Scheduler, making sure you blame Windows if something wrong happens. An alternative is to activate the Backup Guard, which decides when it's best to make a backup, and automatically takes care of it. Inside the set of tools, you also get to activate Firefox in a test mode so that nothing can actually infiltrate your computer. In addition, you can make the browser portable to carry it around on a USB Flash drive. In conclusion Taking everything into consideration, we can say that zebNet Backup For Firefox TNG is amongst the tools you need if you travel the information superhighway with Mozilla Firefox. The set of utilities put at your disposal is pretty abundant and no tool requires more than a few seconds to configure, initiate, and finish. If you're on the move, just create a portable Firefox version and also take a backup profile with you. Technology has evolved so much over the years, and as a result, the web has become an essential aspect of our everyday lives. Not only that, but being online is now an integral part of the global workforce, which is why it's now vital

This is my testing program to understand how well cPanel works with the Linux operating system. With this very small and simple application I try to get information from my server as well as to make sure my server can get all the data needed for the testing program. Well I am pretty disappointed with cPanel these days. I have had a very bad experience with them on the few occasions where I needed to upload a theme to the WordPress site I run. Not only that they never did what they said they would do. I spent a considerable amount of time getting the theme I wanted but it is a nightmare to change a theme and can't change it if I don't like it. I have spent literally hours trying to get cPanel to work and it won't. It is frustrating and I am absolutely sick of this. There are no guidebooks or support to help you if you get stuck. I have decided not to use cPanel for my site any more and if they don't sort it out I will move my site to another provider. Leave a Reply The word "cPanel" may make you think of a yellow person jumping on a green sheet of paper. But you should know that cPanel is not only a yellow person. In fact, cPanel is a web-based application that allows easy access to managing your websites. As an admin, this is a very useful tool that you should have on your server to facilitate your activities. Finderscope is a simple search program that you can use to search for files, image files, or PDF files. It will help you find exactly what you are looking for. You may use this to quickly find a text file that you need to read, or the file that you have lost for a long time. The program can search for the word, the file name, or the file size. What's New in the ZebNet Backup For Firefox TNG?

zebNet Backup for Firefox TNG lets you create a backup profile that's compatible with Mozilla Firefox, so you can save and recover data when your browser is in use. Office 2010 lets you collaborate remotely by using Microsoft SharePoint Server 2010, although only a few special extensions offer their functions over the Web. Office 2010's present is called Word Web App, and you can use it to create and view document files, use PDF printing, and open and edit Office files. Learn more about the new Web apps in Office 2010 here: You can also create Word Web App documents online here: The new look of the Windows 8 Start screen shows how Microsoft intends to highlight the Windows 8 interface for tablet users. The new Start screen already comes with a number of features and gestures. The new Live Tiles in Windows 8 work like screensavers that you see in many other computers. They don't take up space and only show specific details. For instance, if you see the Calendars screen tile, you can see a calendar. When you touch it, you can see more detailed information on a particular day. There's an arrow icon, too. It lets you move to the previous or next screen, and to the desktop. You can add multiple tiles to the Start screen. To do so, right-click a tile and choose "pin to start." The first screen is the All Apps screen. From here, you can see and access the programs from a specific category. By touching the tile, you can access the menu, which offers quick access to more details. You can also set the default home page from the All Apps screen. The next screen is the Apps screen. Here, you can see the list of installed applications. The last screen is the Settings screen. It includes a number of functions such as adjusting the sound volume. The whole process of using Windows 8 is less cumbersome than using the old Start screen. It's a smooth and clean interface, and you can operate it with just a few gestures. In addition, you can create shortcuts on the desktop and access them from the Start screen with a single touch. In conclusion, Windows 8 is Microsoft's attempt to simplify the Windows interface so that it's easier to use. The tiles are a great step in this direction. You can also create your own custom tiles, and put them in the Start screen. You can do a lot with the picture-in-picture feature. By adding a YouTube video, this feature works great, if you watch online videos while browsing the Internet. In this case, you will no longer watch an empty screen; instead,
