CRACK Vuescan Professional Edition 9.1.08 (x86x64) + Serials VersionÂ .Q: Multiline Select tag in Java I want to develop a program to display lots of choices under a form, like this: Where the gray text is a edit text, and the list is a clickable link. I have no problem with the gray text, as that's just an edit text which gets toggled on and off when the checkbox/radio button is clicked. The problem I'm having is figuring out how to make the items in the dropdown change when the user clicks on them. I have done a bit of Googling, and thought about creating a JSoup list of all the items to feed into a JList, but this seems like a bit of a hack. I thought maybe I could put in some sort of listener for when the user clicks on an item, and then refresh the list, but I don't know how to do that. Any tips on how I can fix this? A: You could just set the model for the JList. For example, if the JList is called list, and you have a JButton called button for displaying the drop down, you could do: list.setModel(new DefaultListModel(...)); There's a javadoc example, and you can see more details here: Occurrence and properties of quaternary ammonium salts in the aquifer of an abandoned uranium mining area. The overall purpose of this work was to 0cc13bf012
