Get ready, you are about to embark on an unprecedented journey and in order to make this process as smooth as possible, we have provided you with some additional information to make you feel more comfortable with the special features of the game. Your MeChip: Your MeChip will act as a radio-signal device that will allow you to communicate with other Player and between different points of the world. But it is also your Intelligence Centre, your personal Power-Up and the best choice you can make in order to avoid unnecessary risks. Your MeChip will bring you up-to-date with the latest information, it will suggest actions and it will even prompt you to perform actions. The warnings you will receive: Your MeChip will warn you of the strategic implications of the actions you're about to take. If you follow the suggestions it will provide you, your MeChip will warn you of the consequences of your choice and if the situation requires your attention, it will call for assistance. -You may also be assigned to a specific region, in which case your MeChip will act as an Intermediary between you and your team, communicating information about the situations that are happening in different zones. - Your MeChip may also warn you of possible attacks, allowing you to avoid them in order to better manage your load. -Your MeChip will also keep track of the information you receive through your Satellite. Use it wisely to avoid problems. The warnings you will receive In order to make you aware of the best possible options available to you in every situation that comes up, your MeChip will warn you of the strategic implications of the decisions you make, also informing you of the possible consequences of each possible choice. The MeChip will also inform you of the possible consequences of any choices you make, so you can avoid situations that could make things difficult for you. The MeChip will also alert you when an attack can jeopardise your safety, allowing you to re-evaluate the situation. You will also be able to see the consequences of certain choices in the form of a potential Daily Upgrade and a special Daily Upgrade that will only be available in the event of a major event (events outside the normal game world). How your MeChip works Satellite: Your MeChip will communicate with your Satellite, which is compatible with iOS and Android devices and will also be able to connect to the web to retrieve data in real time. The MeChip also acts as your personal Power-Up,

You can play either as the Entente or the German forces, each having two different sides of the story. Play with the Entente or German player deciding first which side to play, and then choose from a list of scenarios, playing them against the AI. The forces of one player do not play against the forces of the other side, so you can use the game to learn the battle of East Africa in a scenario's context, before playing it out against a human opponent. Realistic & Close to the Real Life & War: The battle of East Africa is much more war than a simple wargame. The forces are supplied by both the Entente and German Imperial forces, and one has to decide how to make use of that advantage in the ongoing campaign. War is short in Ostafrika 1914, but it is bloody and engaging. You get to the level of detail and realism that matches that of the most important campaigns of WW1. Coffee & A Thought: Modernity and the Measurement of Time An artist's rendition of Albert Einstein (left) and Percy Bridgman (right), the founder of modern physics. John Kruzinske A new exhibition at the Smithsonian's National Air and Space Museum is showing off a now-youthful portrait of Albert Einstein, created in 1925 at the age of 50. Of course, if you think about the things that lie ahead for the 21st century, you can't help but get excited - as you do every time you read the headline of a new study, every time you watch a new movie, every time you listen to a new song, every time you read a newspaper, every time you turn on a television. This is where an intellectual history comes into play, and an explanation for its return after a long hibernation (or even recent resurgence). Of all the "modernizers" of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, the one man whose name remains etched into our history the most is one who put us on the path to modernity - and, perhaps, a liberal constitutional democracy. We know that he was Jewish, with a Provençal surname. We know that he was born in a place called Ulm in southwestern Germany in 1879. We know that in the midst of the WWI, and as a professor at the prestigious Swiss federal Polytechnic Institute, he came up with a theory for changing the atomic structure of matter, something that could not have

ality of the Quran:1. Is the revelation of a higher power on the level of a man-made thing? ← 2. If God sends revelation through a holy messenger(s), why is the Quran a repetition of what you can read anywhere? ← 3. If the Quran is from God, why is it not free from errors? ← 4. If the Quran contains errors, why it is not the only source?  ← 5. If the Quran contains errors, why the 14 Noble Prophets and the thousands of Saints of Islam in addition to God's revealed books do not reject the Quran?  Sir, please excuse if I put this in controversial lines. Please let me know what your feelings are about it and whether the message reaches to you or not. You wrote:2. If God sends revelation through a holy messenger(s), why is the Quran a repetition of what you can read anywhere? Because if God was sending this revelation through his messenger(s) at the time of revelation, there were millions of imperfection in the Quran. Like the perfection in Sira-e-Safin (Adn-Nabi, in Urdu) and Sira-e-Zafar (Adn-Nabi, in Persian), it is impossible to believe in the divine revelation to be a single person. It takes time, i.e. billions of years to complete and perfect the Quran. God can't be an impostor, as he is all powerful. The birth of the Quran has been and will be approved with eternal meanings by billions of people by endless time. Sir, please excuse if I put this in controversial lines. Please let me know what your feelings are about it and whether the message reaches to you or not. You wrote:2. If God sends revelation through a holy messenger(s), why is the Quran a repetition of what you can read anywhere? I'm not saying this is so, if that is what you are implying. But you indicate that it is, by saying, "If God sends revelation through a holy messenger(s), why is the Quran a repetition of what you can read anywhere?" To address this, I'd first say that I'm talking about the Holy Quran, and not the Quranic, as the original post you're responding to was talking about the Quranic. Sir, please excuse if I put this in controversial lines. Please let me know what

Introduction:

What do we do?

To ignite a revolution, and to do that you need the power of the masses. The goal? Implement your own fantasy-related content. The backers you have gathered will finance your petition. See it through to the final reveal, and impress the jokesters with your end-result.

Let them laugh at it, but don't you take it as any kind of favour. No use in getting angry over such a simple matter, even if you really feel like it.

You have a good thing going on - the Blobettes, Drew Jansen, JANCO, and you. But it needs a lot of work, and it's still early. You've got a lot to do if your revolution is to succeed.

Your plot:

A few weeks ago Drew Jansen and his
