Technical Field The present disclosure relates to a method of manufacturing a photoanode for a photovoltaic device. 2. Description of Related Art A typical photovoltaic device includes a photovoltaic cell and a photoanode. The photoanode absorbs light, such that electrons and holes are separated from the electrons and the holes are moved to the photovoltaic cell for photovoltaic effect. In the photovoltaic device, the photoanode may include a buffer layer, a photoelectric layer, and an opening. The buffer layer and the photoelectric layer are sequentially formed on the substrate and the opening is formed in the buffer layer and the photoelectric layer. The opening defines a plurality of edges on the surface of the photoanode. The edges have stepped portions which may be damaged during the deposition of the buffer layer and the photoelectric layer. The optical transmittance of the buffer layer and the photoelectric layer is reduced. What is needed, therefore, is a method of manufacturing a photoanode for a photovoltaic device that can overcome the above mentioned disadvantages.
